The Chinese Letter the Chief Topic of Interest in the States.

One Thousand to Three Hundred Dollars in Favor of the Republicans Carrying N. Y.

Philadelphia, Pa., October 30.—At the trial of Phelps's to-day Judge Davis again took the seat. At two of the clock Phelps was present. A lady attracted much attention and some delay being caused Mr. Bell for the prosecution asked if the delay was not of their seeking and said if he be permitted he would call Payne as a witness. The court consented and Payne testified. Many letters and envelopes were in waiting as that of the editorial published in Truth. The editorial it was admitted was written by Phelps. The defense called Andrew McLennan, the manager of the Brooklyn Eagle and who had known Phelps for twelve years and knew his handwriting well as during those twelve years they had worked in the same office. He said he had seen him write almost daily. I now see for the first time the original Morey letter and envelope and from my knowledge of Phelps writing have no doubt whatever that it is not in the handwriting of Phelps. He has not been in the habit of spelling company in the way it is here. I have edited nearly 1,000 columns of Phelps's matter and have never known him to spell such words in that way. I have been editor of the Eagle for eight years and during the time Jas. McDermatt was never on the paper. I knew his reputation and would not believe him under oath if there was any temptation for him to testify. Joe Goodin of the Eagle staff was engaged with Phelps in dramatic work and said: I am positive the Murray letter is not Phelps's writing. I never knew him to spell words ending in "ies," and "ys" as companies is spelled. Jas McDermatt's character for veracity is not good. F. Hudson, of the Eagle, gave similar testimony. I. Harvey, a graduate of Oxford University, England, and for fourteen years associated with Mr. Phelps said the Murray letter and envelope were not in Phelps's writing. He said he knew James McDermatt and would not believe him under oath if he had a dollar's interest either way.

Several proof readers and city editors of the Brooklyn Eagle testified that the Murray letter was not in the writing of Phelps. Two workmen testified that they knew of an organization known as the employers' union or something like that but knew little or nothing about it. The defense attempted to show by witnesses that Gen. Garfield's vouchers for pay in Washington were in the same hand as the Murray letter. The testimony of W. C. Colton was first ruled out but finally received when it should be shown that it contradicted Gailor's testimony. Colton showed envelopes which he had received and with stamps on in spite of Gailor's claim that such letters were not stamped. The prosecution claimed that this evidence contradicted nothing because Gailor's testimony only related to letters from Washington to the east.

New York, Oct. 30.—Barnum's committee has telegraphed to many newspapers in California and elsewhere, an affidavit signed by Joseph Hart, with a letter of Marshall Jewell to Garfield, for the purpose of charging Jewell with attempting by bribery to suppress proofs of the genuineness of the Morey letter. Jewell being interviewed denounces the affidavit as a tissue of falsehoods and says his letter to Garfield, which was perfectly proper in itself, was secured by Hart through arrant trickery, for fraudulent purposes, through the betrayal of confidence on the part of Hart's attorney, Judge Dittenhofer, who was an active German Republican, and the first speaker to take the stump in this campaign, under the auspices of the National Committee, and enjoyed the fullest confidence of Jewell. He had been attorney for the Truth newspaper since its organization, and as such attorney desired to arrange an interview between Mr. Jewell and Hart. Hart and his associates while professing to the public to believe the Chinese letter was genuine, were in fact convinced to the contrary, and that it was forgery, and had proposed to make a retraction of the charges already published. Jewell, believing that such retraction by the paper, (one of whose editors had forged the letter) would be its most effective denial, met Hart as requested, at Dittenhofer's office, Tuesday evening, and stated to them that nothing but an unqualified retraction would be satisfactory. Hart endeavored to secure Jewell's promise, accompanied by a letter to Gen. Garfield that this retraction by the paper would secure the abandonment of proceedings against Phelps, the forger of the Morey letter. Jewell flatly refused this and said he should be punished to the full extent of the law. Hart then offered to publish a retraction on condition that Dittenhofer should have the benefit of securing the same, if any was to be derived by anybody. To this Jewell had no objection and at the earnest request of Dittenhofer and Hart wrote the letter to Garfield and gave it into Dittenhofer's possession. How Hart subsequently obtained it for publication Dittenhofer is expected to explain to-night. It is now apparent that Hart's purpose in seeking the interview was to secure from Jewell through Dittenhofer a letter which should compromise both Jewell and Garfield and which he would publish as an offer of bribery. The cautious phraseology of the letter however excludes that interpretation of it and its publication here has fallen flat. No proposition looking to the abandonment of Phelps' prosecution has been entertained for a moment.

Mentor, Ohio, Oct. 30.—Gen. Garfield in making a speech to-day, quoted from a book he had read long ago, in which it was said: "Man is the only animal that makes tools for his own use;" and discoursed on the progress of mankind from past ages to the present, and said: Tools are an index of civilization. He alluded to the question of protection thus: I have never thought it was a sufficient reason for asking the legislature of the nation to make laws merely to let one class of citizens make more money, but the industry of which any of our citizens are engaged is one that the whole nation needs for its defence and for the growth and development of its people. Then every man so employed is doing a great and patriotic work which the government should protect and defend for the good of all. On that large national ground every blow you strike is one in defence of the independence of your country and the well being of all its people.

To the Wayne and Ashland county Glee Clubs and band, he made a musical and happy speech. This, said he, is my day of judgment; in a few days it will be the day of judgment for all the people, and whatever that judgment shall be, like good citizens, we will all bow to it and do whatever duty comes to us.

One hundred men from the Britton iron and steel works, of Cleveland, next appeared. A delegation of infantry and cavalry then began to arrive, and undaunted by the rain which fell steadily, about one hundred guards formed into two columns in the meadow opposite the house and Gen. Garfield, in a carriage, received them. There was great enthusiasm.

New York, Oct. 30.—Judge Dittenhofer confirms Jewell's statement in all points. He says he went to the Truth office on Monday, being summoned by telegraph. Hart there told him he had doubts about the Morey letter, and asked to see Jewell about it.

The Judge thought they wanted him to act as a mediator in case of trouble with the authorities. He saw Jewell who wanted the Truth to make a retraction, but on calling on Hart again he (Hart) had determined not to seek anything in mediation. Hart again sent for him and said he was now convinced that the letter was a forgery, and wanted him to see Jewell again. On communicating with Jewell he wrote the letter which has now been published. No offer or consideration was mentioned between us. Judge D. showed the letter to Hart and says heerred in doing so, and never thought of them acting treacherously about it. Hart said he would not publish the letter if they would stop the prosecution of Phelps. This Judge D. declined to accede to, hence the publication.

Washington, Oct. 30.—A dispatch was received at Gen. Devens' office in this city to-day from the California state democratic committee saying: "California safe for Hancock—how is New York?" A cheering response was sent.

On the other hand a dispatch to this evening's Star from its conservative correspondent in New York City says:

"The leading democrats here admit that the state will go republican by perhaps a larger majority than Platte's estimate of 30,000."

The Star's correspondent also telegraphs:

"The pool rooms are active; the best bets that can be obtained on the general result of the presidential election, are 300 on Hancock to 1,000 on Garfield."

New York, Oct. 30.—Judge Dittenhofer says he was counsel for the Truth because of a long standing friendship with Louis F. Post, who has been assistant district attorney, but was now managing editor of the Truth, when he saw the Chinese letter he tried to persuade Post not to publish it because he thought it was a forgery. Hart told him twice that it was a fraud, and that the leading democrats were beginning to go back on it.

They were getting frightened and wanted it settled. I went to Jewell and told him substantially what they said. Jewell then wrote the letter which has been published and said: "You may show them this letter."

Omaha, Oct. 30.—The trial of C. K. Allen, a former Union Pacific Express agent, at Sidney, resulted in his acquittal. It will be remembered that some months ago $122,000 of gold bullion and a small amount of currency was received from the Black Hills, en route east, and disappeared from his office while he was at dinner, and that after a considerable search it was found hid in a coal pile under the office, with the exception of one brick and the currency, amounting to $12,000. The evidence against Allen was very strong, but not strong enough to satisfy the jury, who were out about eighteen hours before coming to an agreement of not guilty.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 30.—The General Passenger Agent of the Central Pacific, and W. F. White, of the A. T. & S. F. are here in conference with T. L. Kimball, general passenger agent of the U. P. R. R., in regard to the uniformity of rates and the methods of doing business between the west. The Southern Pacific and the A. T. & S. F. expect to form a junction by the first of January. One hundred and fifty miles have yet to be constructed to form the junction.

Cleveland, Oct. 30.—To-day was a field day at Mentor. Trains came from all ways, carrying delegations to call on General Garfield. The first was 150 iron workers from Youngstown, headed with a band wearing badges "329" on their hats.

The democrats created a sensation here to-day by arresting two men for fraudulent voting, claiming they had not lived here long enough.

Washington, Oct. 30.—The secretary of the Interior to-day appointed N. B. Nichols, engineer of the bureau of railroad accounts, and Hoyt Sherman of Iowa, and J. Bloom of New York, commissioners to examine recently completed section (25 miles) of the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad.

London, Oct. 30.—The Sporting Life says all the pedestrians entered for the Astley belt are in good condition and it is expected they will cover more than 600 miles. The start will take place at 1 o'clock Monday morning next.

Portland, Maine, Oct. 30.—Edwin Flynn, republican elector, has resigned the presidency of the First National Bank, learning a part of the directors proposed to enter objections to his acting in case he was elected.

Ottawa, Oct. 30.—Mr. Bailey, Minister of the Internal Revenue has resigned to take a judgeship. Mr. Cason, of Quebec, succeeds to the cabinet.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 30.—A boiler of the Atlanta Flour Mill exploded, to-day, killing the engineer and fireman.

N. W. Somers, Raton, N. M.; D. L. Poole, Kansas City; George Evans, Denver; M. Hanson, Baugh's Siding; Ross Kendall, Washington, Iowa, are registered at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

Mr. Edie, of Obern, Hosick & Co. wool merchants of Chicago, arrived yesterday from Chicago and will remain some days in the city, before going to his headquarters at Albuquerque.

—Mr. E. B. Taylor, of Baugh's Siding paid us a friendly visit yesterday and entered his name on the Gazette subscription list. He is at present running the boarding train at Baugh's Siding.

—O. L. Houghton sold yesterday 45 stoves and it was no extra day's work either. He is shipping a large lot to Colorado even. His facilities for buying and shipping are so good that he can do this kind of trade with profit.

—Our readers must not kick us about no telegraphic report but help us kick the telegraph company. We have done everything possible for the cause, but an old rotten wire, worn out ten years ago, is pretty unreliable.

—Messrs. Rupe & Castle have put in a complete stock of hardware and have also added a tin shop to their business on the east side. They have a complete stock of tinners' goods. They are thus steadily enlarging their business and their trade.

—Mr. J. W. Barney is running for justice of the peace in the east town precinct. Mr. Barney is an energetic gentleman as is indicated by the valuable improvements he has added to the new town and he will undoubtedly make a good officer if elected.

—Rev. Geo. K. Dunlap, who has lately been chosen Missionary Bishop for New Mexico and Arizona, will be consecrated as Bishop, at St. Louis, on Sunday, the 21st of November. He may be expected in his new field shortly after his consecration. His residence will be at whatever town he sees fit to select.
